

End of the Road

INFO TO TAKE HOME WITH YOU

Digital Media

Healthcare Traveler, paperless

Get the latest news and information when it's convenient for you with Healthcare Traveler's new Digital Edition. Just like the traditional paper edition, only faster and environmentally friendly. Sign up now for your free subscription at healthcaretraveler.com/digital!

Find these helpful features online:

- Job Opportunities: Contact advertisers with our online Career Center and our Digital Edition's new electronic reader service links.
- HT E-News: Read or subscribe to our free e-newsletter.
- Healthcare Traveler Radio: Hear the latest issues affecting travelers in these podcasts.
- Be our fan on Facebook.
- Tweet with us on Twitter.

Visit healthcaretraveler.com

WEB POLL RESULTS

How has the economy affected your flexibility in accepting contracts?

44%

I have taken fewer contracts.

31%

I have taken contracts in less desirable locations.

25%

It has not affected my flexibility.

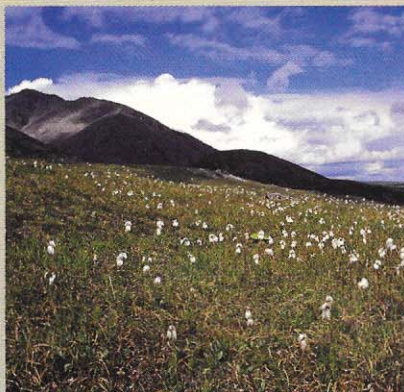

WEB POLL QUESTION

WHAT PETS DO YOU PREFER?

We need to know! Tell us at healthcaretraveler.com.

Did you know ...

Sparsely attended national parks in the United States

Gates of the Arctic National Park

In 2008, more than 61 million people visited our country's 58 national parks. Great Smoky Mountains and Grand Canyon were the most popular, with 9 million and 4.4 million visitors, respectively, and Yellowstone, Yosemite, and Olympic each boasted more than 3 million tourists. If those staggering crowds are too much for you, there are a number of parks—some quite off the beaten path—with visitors numbering in the mere thousands. According to the National Park Service, the 10 national parks with the fewest visitors in 2008 were:

1. Kobuk Valley, Alaska, 1,565 visitors
2. National Park of American Samoa, 3,683
3. Lake Clark, Alaska, 6,802
4. Katmai, Alaska, 7,970
5. Gates of the Arctic, Alaska, 11,397
6. Isle Royale, Mich., 14,038
7. North Cascades, Wash., 18,725
8. Dry Tortugas, Fla., 63,947
9. Wrangell-St. Elias, Alaska, 65,693
10. Great Basin, Nev., 69,235